Jail for Sinclair and Burns

DRIVE FOR SINCLAIR JURY

But C. Sawyer, lawyer for Harkness, making all witness, testified Harkness received the funds and that they were in a New York bank. He said his client had told him he knew of no illegal use having been made of the profits of the Continental either in the issue of Teapot Dome or otherwise.

Following his success in convicting Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns, Maine lawyer and adviser of the Continental Trusting Company, announced he would proceed against James J. Harkness, general sales agent, and all of the Harkness defense team who participated in the jury maneuver.

SINCLAIR FIGHTS JAIL
The court held the grounds on which the oil man sought to testify in the question of the Liberty bonds of the Continental Trusting Company were irrelevant and without legal basis.

The writ of habeas corpus will be discharged and the petitioner returned to the custody of the respondents," he said.

He said that he was arrested after refusing to answer questions asked by the Teapot Dome committee, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, but an appeal noted by his counsel automatically acted as a stay of the order.

The writ of habeas corpus was granted, and a bond of $2500 was furnished by Harkness.

At the same time it was indicated that the oil sentence imposed on Harry F. Sinclair and his associates for tampering with the Fall-Sinclair jury, he expected first sign by the Hearst newspapers, will be subjected to a long delay.

Following, Henry Mason Day, William J. Burns and W. R. Burns, all filed appeal bonds, which gave them liberty pending appeal of the contempt conviction and sentence imposed by Judge Frederick L. Sullivan.

TRAIL HUB LOANS
Current rumors that a million dollars of the Continental Trusting Company's Liberty Bonds fund "black fund" was used to buy off a deficit of the Republican national committee occurred in the 1920 campaign were investigated today at the Senate Trust Dome oil hearing.

Officials of Grand Jury building in New York were called as witnesses to determine whether they handled loans for the Republicans in 1920 and when, how and where the loans were repaid.

The witnesses today are R. D. Mahesh, chairman of the First National Bank of Boston; John P. Dwyer, chairman of the National Bank, New York; and William H. Gilks, assistant manager of the Continental and Commercial Trust Company of Chicago.

They were told to produce all these items by Feb. 2, Column 1.

GET $10,000 IN SECOND GOWN ROBBERY

Gown and jewelry valued at $10,000 were stolen today from the store of William Keen at 31 Seaboard at Back Bay.

The establishment, an exclusive shop frequented by society, was entered through a second floor window by thieves who used a ladder. The gown was carefully packed in boxes and returned to a waiting automobile. Absence of fingerprints was an indication to the authorities that gloves were worn by the burglars.

The break is the second of the season in the district within a week.

BRICKLEY TAKES STAND
IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Charles F. Brickley took the stand in his own defense today in Superior Court, where he is on trial charged with conspiring to defraud the public and the alleged forgery of more than $200,000 in checks of the stock brokerage company. Oil Case 'Scoop' Won Official Praise

EVIDENCE UNEARTHED BY REPORTER

Washington, Feb. 22 (By Universal Service)—Justice Suddins' action in sentencing four offenders for contempt of court as jury tamperers is a direct result of the independent action of the Hearst newspaper in making the startling discovery that Burns detectives had approached jurors hearing the Sinclair-Fall trial.

Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire lessee of Teapot Dome, received an additional six months' sentence for contempt as a result of the expose. Convicted with him were El. Mason Day, an official of one of his companies, who was sentenced 15 days, and the latter's son, W. Sherman Burns, who was fined $10,000.

Article Guarded

On November 1, 1927, the Washington Herald and associated Hearst newspapers published what is regarded as the greatest news beat in years. Their article stated evidence had been unearthed which would compel Justice Suddins, hearing the trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, to declare a mistrial and take strenuous action to bring anyone guilty of jury tampering, or efforts to do so, to justice.

The article was quite guarded. This was the reason that the Washington Herald already had submitted affidavits proving that Burns agents working in the interests of Sinclair actually had approached jurors and that a disagreement by the jury was probable.

This evidence was obtained by Don King, of the Herald, after an exhaustive investigation. Hearst newspaper officials risked a scoop by competing newspapers in turning these affidavits and other evidence over to the government prosecutors before publishing them. Officials also agreed to withhold publication of the evidence until it had been placed before the court by government counsel and a mistrial asked.

This was done on the same day.

The evidence was introduced which caused a wave of indignation to sweep over the nation. Officials immediately started a Grand Jury investigation and very facility of the government was placed at the disposal of the courts.

On the same day the government prosecutors sent to the Hearst newspapers the following appreciation of their public service:

"The Washington Herald and associated Hearst newspapers did a real service by bringing information of this gross irregularity to the government's counsel. It also rendered a real civic service in the dignified manner in which it refrained from publishing the details until they were submitted to the court."

(Signed) "OWEN K. ROBERTS, "ATLEE POMERENE, "PEYTON GORDON."

The defendants were immediately placed under arrest. Then began one of the bitterest fights in the record of the oil fraud scandal to save them from the consequences.

No Presentments

The Grand Jury began an investigation, and after one month of deliberation, returned presentments charging them with conspiracy to defraud justice. Indictments were not drawn up, however, and the foreman of the Grand Jury went over the head of the District Attorney to make his presentment to the Chief Justice of the District Supreme Court.

The Grand Jury adjourned without action being taken on this charge, and the presentments no longer had legal life. The defendants then were cited for contempt and it was as a result of this that the sentences were finally imposed.

During the inquiry witnesses refused to testify. Charges of perjury were made against those who had unearthed the scandal, as well as those guilty. Every legal subterfuge was resorted to to withstand the whole affair. These efforts became so flagrant that members of Congress bitterly scored the inability of the judiciary to make progress. The prosecution was unrelenting, however, and kept hammering away with evidence supplied by the Hearst newspapers until sentence was pronounced.

was sent back to the ladder house, while his comrades concentrated their efforts to prevent the spread of the blaze to the adjoining plant of the Bay State Distillery Corporation, 1499 Columbia st.

Dense clouds of acrid, choking smoke, created by the burning waste, pervaded the neighborhood, handicapping the firemen in their efforts to fight the flames.

Despite the fact that several firemen were affected by inhaling smoke, they refused to leave their posts, and continued to fight the flames, which started on the top floor of the three-story brick building.

The flames started both ways down toward the basement and up to the roof, and Acting Chief Daniel Loney ordered a second alarm at his arrival.

The smoke was so dense that traffic was diverted a block and a half away from the burning building, for more than an hour.

HOOPER IS 'DRY' HE WRITES TO BORAH

The secretary's position was made known to him by Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, who has questioned all candidates on the vet and dry question. Mr. Hoover's letter declared that any holder of the present denial office had a solemn duty to support the law.

The declaration was the first made by Mr. Hoover on a political subject since his presidential campaign was definitely begun 19 days ago by his entrance into the White House.

On the same day the government prosecutors sent to the Hearst newspapers the following appreciation of their public service:

"The Washington Herald and associated Hearst newspapers did a real service by bringing information of this gross irregularity to the government's counsel. It also rendered a real civic service in the dignified manner in which it refrained from publishing the details until they were submitted to the court."

Faces Gem Trial

"Where did she get the gun?" "She took the gun from my lap. She shot herself. Then she said, 'Please, Foster, please.' She pointed toward her heart and I took the gun and shot her. Then I drove back to Waltham."

READ TO HIM

Patrolman Henry, under cross-examination, admitted that Buckley was coughing and spitting blood during the interview at the hospital and also slightly repeated, appearing to be in pain.

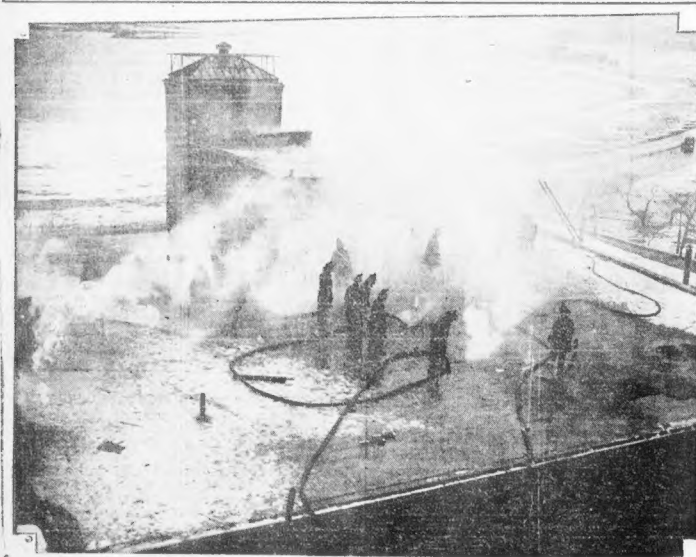

"Buckley was asked if he wanted to sign the paper and register. He gave me a pencil and I'll sign it," testified Henry. "He did not read what had been written down, but one of the officers read everything to him."

Wilbur F. Turner was the next witness. It was his third appearance on the stand in the Buckley case. He testified previously as a defense expert, and as a government handwriting expert.

Turner declared that several erasures and changes on the two "confessions" which the Waltham police brought to court. The dates had been altered in both cases, he said. During a clash between opposing counsel Judge Duhaque remarked that the important thing was whether or not the defendant made these statements.

Yes, but the changes are important, too," retorted Attorney Ellis. "I want to know when the alleged statements were made and why they were changed."

Fight 2-Alarm Fire in Old 'Wet' Goods Plant

Tons of water poured in from roof of old Suffolk brewery, 1494 Columbia road, South Boston, drenched a $5000 blaze that swept heaps of waste and flocks of Dwight & Smith, occupants of the building. Several firemen were overcome by smoke, but returned to the fight. One other fireman fell from a ladder and was injured.

Charles H. McDuffie of Gloucester st., Back Bay, who on Tuesday in the poor debtor court, was found guilty of fraudulently concealing a part of his assets, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court.

McDuffie, for whom a warrant is to be issued from the poor debtor court, is alleged to have hidden his assets from his creditors, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court.

REED RIDIGULES 'DEMAGOGUERY' OF COOLIDGE

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 23 (AP)—Democratic leaders who insist upon plain talk and who the party is divided were bitterly assailed by Senator Reed of Missouri before a State convention of Democrats.

Senator Reed also attacked Republican claims of economy and prosperity. Referring to the most budget address of President Coolidge, he said:

"The President took up time on the radio to tell you he had saved something like $2.40 last year in the White House laundry bill—end of it. He stole the oil lands."

He referred to the President's statement that the budget would be in cutting down department inquests for appropriations had won the Government millions.

"If he wasn't the President of the United States," said the Missourian, "I would say that statement was the worst piece of demagoguery I ever fell from the lips of man."

"Of course, the budget bureau cut down the department estimates, but of course the departments have always asked for more than they expected to get. Remember that the after time and again last year Congress appropriated less than the budget itself recommended."

There is no condition today, he declared, which shows general prosperity and he added that if the Democratic administration and Woodrow Wilson had not caused the present banking and currency not there might have been more.

BETTY ALDEN PRAISES COPLEY SOCIETY MARDI GRAS BALL

Notes Costumes, Gorgeous and Simple, Which Won Prize: at the Annual Event Dear to Art Lovers

TO A LADY TRAILING A GORGEOUS "PEACOCK" COSTUME, to a "bishop" and to a straw-waisted, taffeta-frosted "Dolly Varden" went three very special prizes for excellency and beauty of costume at the Copley Society's Mardi Gras dance on Shore Tuesday night. Mr. Holker Abbott was a judge. It was absolutely impossible that he should declare his own very handsome Arthurian costume of blue and gray a prize winner. It was, however, in that category. Thomas G. Frothingham was a dignified spectator in flowing scarlet robes. Mrs. Frothingham turned back to Colonial days for her costume inspiration.

MRS. JOHN CHIPMAN GRAY'S BILLOWING TAFFETA GOWN and accompanying costume jewels were considered "the thing" when feminines wore the Jenny Lind "off the shoulder, knee waisted, trailing skirted type." Mrs. Gray of course was ceremoniously conducted to a place of honor, alongside the "king" and "queen" of the Mardi Gras. Leighton Rollins was a Parliace in black satin. Mrs. Joseph Courtney was "Queen of Night" in black tulle all bestrided. Miss Katharine Chapman Warren wore the picturesque black velvet gown of her recent "Hedda Gabler" characterization.

GIVEN SO ECCLESIASTICALLY PERFECT AN ALTAR AS King's Chapel possesses, and a decorator believing thoroughly in the Japanese manner of decoration—utter simplicity—marvels can be accomplished in wedding effects. For the Vose-Walker coronation the flower-candle-crochery motif was reduced to the utmost minimum with excellent results. Two tall Siberian feras lifted feathery saw-toothed tapers to tall silver candlesticks. Could simplicity go further? Or be more pleasing?

THE BRIGHT-EYED, DARK-TRESSED BRIDE WHO WALKED to the altar Miss Nancy Sturgis Vose and returned from it Mrs. Guy Warren Walker, Jr. wore with utmost pictorial effect the conventional blue and white. Gossamer lace outlined the "dovetail-back" hem of a robe de style done in hazy blue liberty. Long fingertip sleeves and a coil of tulle beneath the chin were in the pictorial mode. And for sentimentality's sake, and for beauty's also, the bride wore some exquisite lace, brought from Venice, and some old treasured family pieces done into a veil with coronet. Her flowers were Bermuda lilies, a loss ahead of the fragrant white blossoms of the spring.

COLORS SO VERY FRESH AND SPRINGLIKE THAT MODISTS call them "apple blossom" and "French violet" tracked the bride attendant, to the end that the procession was greatly adorned thereby. Their period frocks had dipped hems and velvet shoulder bows swung into slender streamers, and their velvet hats were modified from the "picture" into the "noop" effect in pretty frame fair faces. They carried pink tulips, lavender sweet peas and yellow trezias. Miss Pavla Vose, the maid of honor, and Mrs. J. Howard Wing, Miss Virginia Hayden, Miss Emily L. Wentworth and Miss Ruth Plummer were the other bride attendants.

MRS. LOUIS STURGIS VOSE, MOTHER OF THE BRIDE, wore a handsome gown of rose-beige lace with a cluster of orchids at the shoulder. Mrs. Guy W. Walker's costume was black, given touches of white, principally by garlands. After the coronation guests went on to Charles River sq. to extend their congratulations. The reception went on amid picturesque surroundings—a baronial hall-like apartment hung with tapestries and mirrors, brightened with flowers and lighted by tapers. The newweds are going down to the Spanish Main for a nautical honeymoon, doing a Southern cruise, and plan to be away some weeks. The new establishment will be somewhere "On the Hill."

MISS MARIBEL VINSON

Youngest member of the Olympic figure skating team that went to Saint Moritz to uphold American honors.

PLEASANT OCCASIONS HAVING, MRS. FRANK DEXTER ELLISON of the Hotel Sheraton as hostess, are more or less frequent occurrences. Particularly does she entertain for her intimates of the Colonial Dames. Luncheon in the Rose Room followed by bridge is Nancy Vose Weds Guy Warren Walker, Jr.

(the usual procedure. Her recent hospitality of this sort was for more than a half dozen guests, gathered about a luncheon table early with yellow roses.

CRUISING THE BOTTLE NEAR seas and sailing into practically every port of the Spanish Main is the method by which these fellow professionals, Messrs. Gordon Allen, Andrew H. Harbison and Conrad Hobbs, have been passing very pleasantly a month or six weeks of winter. Their leisurely plumage is just ended; I believe they are due back in town in a day or two. Mrs. B. Nason Hamlin of Dedham and her son Francis Hamlin also have done a West Indian cruise and also are back in town again after this pleasant or late winter journey.

ON THE OTHER HAND, SOME fortunate late winter travelers have just commenced their journey. Mrs. Holden McGinley of Milton is in Bermuda spending some weeks in the pursuit to make the mid-ocean tale unique as a winter resort. An indefatigable opera attendant, Mrs. McInley stayed religiously in town until the warblers from Chicago had "rilled their final notes and bled themselves to other audiences in other cities.

Show Penny Boys How to See New York for $9.75

New York, Feb. 23 (AP)—Spending $9.75 each, 125 residents of Stroudsburg, Pa., have proved as but another fallacy the reputed high cost of "seeing New York." The thriftiness of the Stroudsburg residents even drew words of admiration from Sir Harry Lauder, whose play they went to see. Headed by Ernest H. Wyoff, a leading merchant of Stroudsburg, the visitors came to New York, saw two shows, had luncheon and dinner, enjoyed bus rides up and down Riverside drive and Fifth ave., and visited Grant's tomb and the theatrical district. Summed up, the bill read: rail-road fare, $3.50; bus fare, $1.50; luncheon, $1.50; theater, $2.50, and dinner at an automist, 15 cents. Many good Diet Cies driven only a few hundred miles and offered every day to Boston American Classics 21c. See Class Circular 190.

UNION TOBACCO CO. NEW YORK

LOST WITNESS IN OIL CASE GOT $750,000

records of Republican loans if any had been made.

With Schuyler's disclosure, the committee now has uncovered $1,512,000 of the $2,000,000 Liberty bonds the Continental concern bought with its profits in hoarding at $1.39 a barrel and selling it to the Prairie Oil & Gas Company for $1.23.

Besides this $153,000 of blackboard bonds, the committee has evidence of $100,000 loaned to the Prairie Oil & Gas by James E. O'Neil, another missing witness in the Fall.

Stewart's case, $41,000 as local fees to J. S. O'Neil, president of the Continental, $23,000 which Stewart paid to Fall after the Texas Home loan, and $15,000 given to the Republican National committee presumably by Sinclair.

HE DODGED QUIZ

Blackmer told him, Schuyler said, that he had not volunteered as a witness in the Teapot Dome oil case at Cheyenne in 1925 because if he appeared his private affairs would have been gone into.

After conferring with Blackmer as stated for three days, Schuyler said he was made trustee for Blackmer's bonds, placing them in a safety deposit box in the Equitable Trust Company in New York.

"Those bonds are in the hot run," he said. "They are worth the serial numbers. Our committee can inspect them at any time."

Schuyler disclosed that Blackmer had requested positive identification over the bonds by both the Midwest Refining Company and its parent organization, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Schuyler testified that on last January 24 he wrote to Blackmer advising him that the Senate was to begin its investigation of the Continental.

Blackmer then he should make a statement for Schuyler.

"You are authorized to make a statement for me," Blackmer cabled from Paris last Monday.

Turning from the inquiry as to Blackmer's Continental bonds, the committee again took up the trail from once held by James E. O'Neil.

From N. C. Lenefsey, cashier of the National City Bank, it was learned that on August 15, 1922, when Lenefsey after the Continental was organized, O'Neil cashed coupons from first $1,000 Liberty bonds aggregating $344,800 in face value of the bonds.

On January 2, 1923, Lenefsey said, there was a sum of $27,637.75 deposited to O'Neil's credit, representing 5 1/2 per cent bonds having a face value of $1,000,000.

GRILL SINOLAH MEN

Howard W. Kennell, secretary of Sinclair's personal Hyva Corporation, was called in this connection, as was Graham Young, cashier of Hyva & Co., New York brokers who handled Sinclair's bond accounts.

Nathan C. Lenefsey, cashier of the National City Bank of New York, another witness, was called in connection with the bond account of James E. O'Neil, who helped organize the Continental but who fled to Europe when the company's activities became known.

Previously it was revealed that O'Neil held $100,000 of the Continental bonds and turned them over to the Prairie Oil & Gas Company, when he felt he was going to do this.

Passage of $750,000 of the bonds to the Continental committee in 1923 has been definitely established by the Senate committee in 1923, having been used to pay of a part of the Teapot Dome Trust Company in New York.

This sum was given the Republic committee by Sinclair and it was known that he turned the Continental bonds, including those known to have possessed some of them.

The bonds were called when investigators for the oil committee learned that their institutions made loans to the Republic organization and the Senate investigation done in New York how those loans were repaid.

The status of Stewart and his friend, Sinclair, has become largely an advertisement.

Would Die Rather Than Lose Arm, Says Depew's Nephew

New York, Feb. 23 (NS)—Withholding his permission to let his right arm be amputated, Charles Cook, Parading, 60 years old, vice-president of public relations of the New York Central Railroad, is in a serious condition in a hospital here. He is a nephew of Chauncey Depew, chairman of the board of the railroad.

"I would rather die than go through life without my arm," he said.

Infection started when he incurred a place on one of his fingers, a purpura and infection of the infected finger had to be removed. He agreed to this, but it did not stop the spread of infection.

the same as a result of today's court action.

Blackmer has been tried before a jury for contempt of the Senate and a jury for contempt of the Senate and a jury for contempt of the Senate.

Stewart has been arrested for the same contempt—refusal to answer Senate questions concerning the Continental Trading Company's "cash fund."

Formal indictment of Stewart for contempt of the Senate by a District of Columbia grand jury is expected almost daily. This indictment, as in Sinclair's case, will be followed by a jury trial and conviction, as regarded by Government attorneys.

TWO IN SAME BOAT

The court's action and the appeal mean that Stewart now cannot be tried before the Senate until after the Supreme Court decides the issue. If the Court of Appeals decision is against the oil men, they will appeal to the highest tribunal.

This may mean a year or longer before the final decision.

The petitioner stated that he appeared voluntarily before the committee to give his testimony, "the justice stated in his decision. He took an oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

He voluntarily testified in part but refused to tell the whole truth, and a partial truth was his as a matter of fact. He was not a witness, but he was a witness. These questions were clearly relevant to the inquiry and involved no question of privilege. They did not involve the private affairs of the witness, and the witness cannot make such a claim on behalf of others when in these not appear to be acting in a representative capacity.

"But even such a ground will not be an excuse for failure to answer questions relevant to any matter which were the subject of proper inquiry."

To Stewart's committee that the Senate was without power to arrest him while he was a witness before the committee in obedience to a subpoena issued by it.

TELLS HOW INSURANCE SAFEGUARDS THE HOME

The primary function of life insurance is to provide for the safeguarding of the home, said William H. Russell, president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, declared today at the second of the winter series of assembly luncheons at the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Life insurance enables men to provide for the future and not merely to adjust for the present. The first step today, more and more, is being realized that a man's first duty is to provide for the future security of his home and family.

He described the life insurance trust, by which money is paid out, directed to the insured, and made of the life insurance company, who assists in the management of the trust.

IF KIDNEYS GET BAD TAKE SALTS

urine and waste in with back ache and dull misery in the kidneys it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids increases the acidity in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become overworked and tired. When your kidneys get sluggish and slow you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's uric acid. One you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach boils, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, chances after act, your water scale and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Effortlessly a good, reliable medicine at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Bad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before going to bed for a few days and your kidneys are free from the trouble. This famous salt is made from the salt of nature and is pure, and has been used for years to help relieve and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to purify the blood system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving backache, twinges.

Bad Salts is inexpensive, cannot harm and makes a delicious, pleasant, little water drink. Drink low of soft water.

Winifred Black Bares
Dope Needle's Curse

By WINIFRED BLACK
THE STORY OF THE LIVING DEAD—Morphine, the oldest evil sister in the family of "dope," was discovered in 1806 by a man named Hamlin, who was a chemist in a little German village.

It was the first alkaloid in the pure state that was ever used.

It was hailed as a blessing to humanity, all through the civilized world, in hospitals, in sick rooms, in nursing homes, and everywhere where the name of the little German chemist was heard.

The new friend to mankind—morphine and the morphine needle. And Alexander Wood was a chemist in a little German village.

It was some time before the ordinary man could understand the use of morphine. The morphine addict was regarded as a monster, a creature of the devil, a man who had lost his mind.

A little bit of fool-hoops helps make the strenuous practice sessions of the Braves more tolerable. Johnny Cooney, pitcher, is shown trying to balance a bat on his chin. This, undoubtedly, will help steady his nerves when on the mound.

NEW YORK was virtually a blameless city for a period of twenty-four hours on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Not a prisoner was brought in, and so for the first Christmas in about twenty-four years the day passed without a homicide.

MARION'S GETS MURRAY AS HERO

By LOVELLA M. PARSONS

Los Angeles, Feb. 23.—James Murray has been named as one of "Polly's" heroes in "Polly Develin," Marion Davies' next picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. This amazing story, which started right into the film a few months ago without any previous experience, will play opposite Marion in the role of one story. Polly has two heroes. One is a play actor, and the other will be chosen tomorrow by King Vidor, the director.

Mr. Vidor and Miss Davies spent the morning yesterday discussing this "Polly" and her world. She is a beautiful young woman and makes a fine comedienne. She is a beautiful young woman and makes a fine comedienne. She is a beautiful young woman and makes a fine comedienne.

The story, prepared by King Vidor, and supervised by King Vidor, gives plenty of action and with the comedy. Marion can be as pathetic as anyone I know in great grief. Everyone here says for her "The Future," but her action, with her ingenious but for sympathy, she gets as much sympathy as laughter.

Only a few people have had the chance of meeting Marion and comedy. Marion has been in the city for a few days, and she has been in the city for a few days, and she has been in the city for a few days.

George O'Brien is trying to beat Marion out of the city. He is trying to beat Marion out of the city. He is trying to beat Marion out of the city. He is trying to beat Marion out of the city.

MADEIRA'S SMART COMEDY TRICK

By HARGREAVE

The saying is, in attempting to analyze the trick, will inevitably proceed by the hardest route. His mission is to make the trick simple to him that the trick must be difficult, otherwise it could not be performed. There he shows his power. Practice with the exact way of doing a trick makes for success.

Putting a coin from under a glass is so simple when explained that one would wonder it is hardly a worthwhile trick to present. But first have a look at the trick, and then you will quickly learn that they will use means which make it impossible to accomplish the feat.

All that is necessary in this trick is to use an ordinary glass, place it on two coins, one on either side, and place a coin on the other side. It is in the center of the glass. It is in the center of the glass. It is in the center of the glass.

Because of the simplicity of the trick is so simple when explained that one would wonder it is hardly a worthwhile trick to present. But first have a look at the trick, and then you will quickly learn that they will use means which make it impossible to accomplish the feat.
